Notes for THOMAS ESTEP:

From Hanson Geneol Record, 1988: THOMAS ESTEP, SR., owned "Valleys and Hills, Tom and Wills" in Frederick Co, Md. Born before 1713, took oath in court in 1734 (A.A. Co. 9-127). Died abt 1772, he is on 1772 tax list and not later - Thomas, Jr. sold his land in 1772.

Thomas is possibly son of Immigrant Richard or Joseph.

Thomas Estep, Sr. is probably a grandson of the immigrant, Richard Estep. Thomas probably had a brother, William, with whom he owned the land, "Toms and Wills, Valleys and Hills". Before this, Thomas owned "Chinkapin Forest".

There may be other children of this family but they have not been found. Thomas and Shadrach moved to North Carolina as given and William is the William of Frederick Co, Md. and Huntington Co, Va. John is probably the John who took the oath of allegiance in North Carolina. Mary is not found.

Family History as written by Pauline Wenger Gallant - December 1984 (Daughter of Alta Williams Wenger)

John Williams, father of Alta, was born on a farm near Cameron, Mo., Caldwell County, Dec 6, 1856 and died at his home 4 miles west of Powhattan, Kansas after a brief illness on Sunday morning, April 27, 1930, at the age of 73 years. John's ambition was to become a teacher so after completing the 8th grade, he attended Campbell College in Holton, Kansas. He was engaged in teaching a number of years. On March 9, 1880 he was married to Fannie Baker Estep to which union 7 daughters and 2 sons were born. For 47 years John resided on the farm where he died. All of his children attended his funeral and he is buried in the Powhattan Cemetery. I was 11 years old when my grandfather, John Williams died. I remember him as a man who respected a sharp mind, who read a lot, enjoyed teaching his grandchildren to read and sing. His tuning fork, which I have and was given to me by Aunt Susie just before her death, was the instrument he used in teaching me my first music when I was a little girl. I remember him as a fairly tall slender man with white hair, white mustache, and grey eyes. He chewed tobacco. His teeth were stained with tobacco juice, but they were his own. He loved to hunt, particularly coon hunt. When he could not sleep at night, he would call out his two coon hounds and take off for the woods just south and east of his house. These treks were frequent trips with him as he was a man of impatience and nervous energy. As his grandsons grew older, he would take them hunting with him. One night he invited my dad Paul to go with him. My dad said to him, "No, I don't want to go. I ain't lost no coons." I spent much time with my grandparents, walking to their home after school. No one could make baking powder biscuits like grandma. She used real butter and cream in blending them, put them in a heavy iron pan in her big wood stove oven and they would bake out all golden brown crispy edges and BIG. Gosh, they were delicious.

John provided the livelihood for his family by doing some farming, hitching his horse to a one-bladed plow and pushing the plow between the two handles, the reins were tied around his waist. Grandpa also sold pelts for $1 each.

Alta remembers that she was "scared to death of dad". She said he never hurt her. She remembers that her dad loved to study the stars, and when there was any change in the solar system, he would get the kids out of bed in the middle of the night to go outside and explain the phenomenon to them. They would sit on the front steps during this apparition and "nearly freeze to death". John would get fidgety about 4:00 A.M. every morning, get out of bed and the whole family and make them get up too. They would all sit around the breakfast table, kerosene lamp lit, and wait for daylight so they could go to school.

I was torn up when my grandfather died. He had been feeling under par for several days and on Sunday morning our family drove to his home to spend the day. When we arrived, he was sitting in his chair in the kitchen. I followed my usual custom of sitting on his lap and inspecting his pocket watch. A short time later he had an "attack" was taken to his bed and died within a couple of minutes. Grandma stayed right by his side. A doctor was phoned but after he died the call was cancelled. The undertaker, Mr. Rake of Horton, Kansas laid grandpa out to rest in his casket in his own parlor, with netting draped over the upper part of his body. Neighbors came in for two nights to keep the wake before he was buried. John was not a church going person but among his papers was found a little note in his handwriting dated March 3, 1896, "Walk worthy of God who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory." A little gem he wrote for me one time was "The purest gem that mortal times afford is a spotless reputation."

Grandpa kept a green wooden box on top of the kitchen cabinet. Along with his important papers, he kept his chewing tobacco, a little brown bag of horehound candy, his tuning fork, and some brown sugar. No one dared look in his box but he always brought it out to give us a little candy or sugar.

His mode of transportation was his spring wagon. He used this to drive to Powhattan for provisions. The Williams family was so large and so close that this just made up their world. This was a place where I could go, be received kindly, and made to feel at home. It was quiet place when just the three of us were there. I shall always cherish the memory of that warmth and peace.
